Steps legal departments must take to manage coronavirus-driven risk:

Review and update commercial contracts with appropriate provisions to mitigate pandemic-driven risk, such as reviewing terms of force majeure provisions

Review and advise on external-facing communications providing updates to suppliers, customers, and contract manufacturers, such as notices sent to customers on ability to deliver shipments

Review and update data privacy and cybersecurity policies for remote work arrangements, and ensure policies are in place to allow secure international remote work as travel is frozen

Review and refresh emergency and business continuity policy deploying communications to employees, responding to sick day and employment-related inquiries and complaints

Prepare team to transition to remote work and deploy tools and guidelines to maintain high quality remote work

Help support business-as-usual work as in-house counsel pivots attention to these and other spikes in work
